Noting the declarations within the United Nations system on cultural diversity and international cultural cooperation, in particular the Declaration of the Principles of International Cultural Cooperation and the Universal Declaration on Cultural Diversity, adopted by the General Conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in 1966 and 2001 respectively,

Convinced that international cooperation in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms for all should be based on an understanding of the economic, social and cultural specificities of each country and the full realization and recognition of the universality of all human rights and the principles of freedom, justice, equality and non-discrimination,

Recognizing that cultural diversity and the pursuit of cultural development by all peoples and nations are a source of mutual enrichment for the cultural life of humankind,

Recognizing also the important role of education in the promotion of cultural rights and respect for cultural diversity,

Encouraging activities aimed at promoting intercultural dialogue in order to enhance peace and social stability, respect for diversity and mutual respect and to create, at all levels, an environment conducive to peace and mutual understanding,

Determined to treat human rights globally in a fair and equal manner, on the same footing and with the same emphasis,

Reaffirming that the promotion and protection of the enjoyment of cultural rights and respect for cultural diversity can contribute to a comprehensive, inclusive and action-oriented response to current global challenges,

2. Recognizes the right of everyone to take part in cultural life and to enjoy the benefits of scientific progress and its applications;

3. Reaffirms that, while the significance of national and regional particularities and various historical, cultural and religious backgrounds must be borne in mind, it is the duty of States, regardless of their political, economic and cultural systems, to promote and protect all human rights and fundamental freedoms;
